MORGAN COUNTY, ILLINOIS 1880 CENSUS

Portions of this census (on microfilm) were very difficult (and sometimes impossible) to read. A line, underline, or a question mark "?" have been used to indicate words or portions of words which were impossible to transcribe accurately. In some cases, I know that surnames listed in this transcription are not spelled as they are today. I've transcribed the names as they appear on the census film. While it may be that an individual did indeed spell his/her name differently in 1880, the difference in spelling is, in all probability, a result of the census taker spelling a name the way it sounded. Some spelling errors may also result from the census taker's penmanship - while a few had beautiful clear handwriting, most varied from messy and barely legible to "not too bad". In addition, there were portions of the film which were of very poor quality and other portions where the original census had been repaired with tape prior to filming - it was impossible to read the information under the tape.

I apologize in advance for errors I've made in transcribing the film. I urge you, when looking for ancestors, to look up each entry which even remotely looks like it might be the name you seek. If you look only for your ancestor name(s) as spelled today, you will no doubt fail to find some of your family members listed in this census.

My sincere appreciation to Florence Hutchison for the use of the microfilm and for the initial transcription of the film. I reread the entire film, comparing the film to the initial transcription - I was able to make additions where entries had been omitted and to correct entries which had been transcribed incorrectly.
